More Explanation

Risk Factors

- Market Risk means the risk that the values of securities which the Fund has invested may increase or decrease due to outside factors such as economic or investment situations, political factors both internally and internationally which could be considered from the Standard Deviation (SD) of the Fund. If the Fund has a high SD, it is an indicator that the Fund has high a fluctuation from the changes in the prices of securities.

- High Concentration Risk

- High Issuer Concentration Risk is caused by the Fund investing in any issuer more than 10% of the total NAV. In the events of unusual circumstance that affect the operations, financial status or the stability of such issuer, the Fund may have higher volatility performance compare to the Funds with more diversified issuers.

However, such concentrated investment does not include the case of investing in the following assets:

1. Thai government fixed income instruments
 2. Foreign government instruments with investment grade credit rating.
 3. Deposits or equivalent instruments that person who accept deposits or the issuer with investment grade credit rating.
- High Sector Concentration Risk is caused by the Fund investing in some specific sectors more than 20% of the NAV. In the events of unusual circumstance that affect the sector, the Fund may have higher volatility performance compare to the Funds with more diversified sectors.

- High Country Concentration Risk is caused by the Fund investing in any country more than 20% of the NAV. In the events of unusual circumstance that affect the country such as political instability, economics or social events. The Fund may have higher volatility performance compare to the Funds with more diversified countries.
- Currency Risk means that the changes in the foreign exchange rate have an impact on the value of the Investment Units. For example, if the Fund invests in dollars during the time when the Baht is weak but sells the securities when the Baht is strong, the Fund will receive lesser Baht. On the other hand, if the Fund invests when the Baht is strong and sells the securities when the Baht is weak, it may receive higher returns. Therefore, hedging is an important tool in managing such risk which can be done as follows:
 - fully/ almost fully hedging: investors don't have the currency risk;
 - partly hedging the proportion of hedging must be clearly specified: investors may be exposed to the currency risk;
 - discretionary hedging of the Fund Managers: investors may be exposed to the currency risk since the Fund Managers will decide whether to use hedging or not;
 - no hedging: investors shall be exposed to the currency risk.

Portfolio Turnover Ratio (PTR) is calculated from the lower amount between sums of value of buying and selling assets of the Fund in a past accounting period divided by averaged net asset value in the same period. It is beneficial for the investors to acknowledge amount of trading assets and the Fund's strategy. In example, the passive fund shall have low PTR, while the active fund shall have high PTR. Assets that are used in calculating PTR shall have liquidity for investment such as equity, bonds etc.
